

The Taj Mahal An Eternal Love Story Movie Download In Hindi The Taj Mahal is one of the most famous landmarks in the world, and for good reason. Its bright white beauty stands out in contrast to its deep red soil, providing an endless array of beautiful images for people to cherish. One photo in particular has captured the hearts of many people around the world - a young couple lying beneath its perfect structure with their complicated love story behind them. This photo was taken in 2007 by Andrew Kuchling and became known as "A love story at sunset". The story of the couple's romance, and that of the photographer himself, is just as interesting as the photo itself. Vancouver couple Jagmeet Singh Randhawa and Jasmeet Gill were the subjects of the photo. They were photographed in front of The Taj Mahal, with their love story behind them captured by Vanity Buzz contributor Andrew Kuchling. In 2007, Andrew traveled to India with a group of travelers as a sort of 'Rent-A-Friend' - an individual who went along with a group to help take photos, but does not travel for pleasure or alone. He was interviewed by CBC and stated that he only took the photo because his friend requested it, and that it wasn't anything special to him. To Jagmeet and Jasmeet, however, it was more than just a photo. It was a tribute to their loved ones: Jasmeet's father, who had passed away in October 2006, and Jagmeet's brother, who died in a car accident three months later. The Taj Mahal was built in the 18th century by Mughal Emperor Shah Jahan as a tomb for his third wife Mumtaz Mahal; the lady who inspired many of his pieces of art and architecture. For this reason, it is also known as "the tomb of love". During their teenage years, Jagmeet and Jasmeet lived in a suburb near the Taj Mahal with their families. They met for the first time when Jagmeet was 14 years old and Jasmeet was 13. It was love at first sight for both of them, but because of the age difference, they kept their feelings to themselves. When Jagmeet was 18 they connected again when he heard from a friend that Jasmeet had been in an accident during the same week that his brother had passed away (he had committed suicide). This led him to decide to try and meet her once more; he asked mutual friends if she would like to get coffee with him sometime and she agreed. Jasmeet's mother pulled her aside to ask if she would like to meet Jagmeet; she told Jasmeet that he was one of the sweetest, kindest boys she had ever met. He was not like the other boys in her school, where they would sometimes even get into fights with each other. The two began dating right away - Jasmeet says that she felt 'an instant connection' with him from when they first met. In June 2007 the two were photographed together in front of The Taj Mahal.
